Aikido in India: an Internet Forum

Join an open e-mail discussion group Aikido in India. The purpose of this group is to provide the Aikido practitioners and Aikido fans in India a platform to discuss related to Aikido topics, to announce forthcoming events, to exchange ideas and to unite our efforts in order to popularize this unique Japanese martial art in India.

All are welcome! This service is free and easy to join. Just follow the link and the instructions.

This mail group is an initiative of the New Delhi Aikido Dojo.

Aikido_Delhi: Members Only Mailing List

Dear New Delhi Aikido Dojo members,

To facilitate communications among our members, we have created a private email list.

All active members are strongly encouraged to subscribe to this email list. In addition to the email announcements about seminars and special events, this email list provides up-to-date/last minute information on schedule changes, important information relating to dojo operation, and an occasional email about non-aikido events a dojo member is personally involved with.

Please note that not being a member of the email list will preclude you from receiving potentially important email announcements from the dojo management. Also, it is the responsibility of individual members to update their contact information.
